

Northern Reporter

Join an award-winning journalism team making a difference in Canada's Arctic. Nunatsiaq News is the newspaper of record for the Eastern Arctic. It serves communities across the Arctic and a large audience of southern readers who are interested in the North and Indigenous people with its website and print edition. Nunatsiaq News offers credible, in-depth and award-winning journalism, which together with lively website comments draws readers from the North, southern Canada and around the world.

Job description

We have an opening for a determined journalist, hungry to break the news that affects our readers by cutting through official silence.

We anticipate this position will be based in Iqaluit, Nunavut. However, candidates living in other parts of the territory would be considered. Nunatsiaq News provides subsidized housing for its northern staff.

You are a skilful interviewer with strong writing and reporting skills who pays close attention to detail and meets daily deadlines.

The job requires a combination of hard-news writing (city hall, crime, and court) as well as feature writing and profile writing.

You are self-reliant and adaptable and used to working in a fast-paced multimedia environment of print, web and social media.

Photography skills and social-media savvy are assets.

Qualifications

The ideal candidate would understand the North — particularly Nunavut — the northern way of life, its traditions and institutions.

The ability to speak Inuktitut would be an asset.

Experience covering municipal government, regional Inuit associations, courts, police and breaking news are also assets.

This position should appeal to either a newsroom veteran looking for a new challenge by putting her or his skills to work in a demanding environment, or to a young reporter eager to gain experience quickly.

Salary commensurate with experience.
